FROM YOUR VOTERS: “I’m a senior citizen and when my husband passed away – I didn’t have the income to live in Austin - close to my children and grandchildren. I moved in to an “affordable” property for seniors outside of town, and it was so poorly maintained. I didn’t have working water for six months! I was so grateful to find [affordable housing] right here in Austin. I really couldn’t believe my eyes. It was so beautiful.”

FROM YOUR VOTERS: “I have two children and am the sole earner in our family. We purchased our home over 10 years ago and, with the economic downturn, foreclosures in the area really hurt our home values and still continue to affect the neighborhood. We would like to live somewhere closer to the city, but I can’t imagine who can afford that these days. I make a good living but can’t seem to get close to the cost of homes in Austin.”

FROM YOUR VOTERS: “After struggling for years with illness, I couldn’t afford a place to rent in Austin. I ultimately ended up homeless. I was struggling, living day to day, and didn’t know where I would sleep at night. But with [affordable housing] I once again have a roof over my head - my own bed, my own pillow, my own shower, a place to cook. A home that’s safe and mine.”

FROM YOUR VOTERS: “After my stroke, I just wasn’t capable enough to live on my own, much less work. I had to move in with family members. It was humiliating on so many levels. I felt totally hopeless. I went from this great life – to a dead stop. I will tell you very honestly – that [affordable housing] has been a life saver. Because of [affordable housing], I have my independence again. I feel like myself once more.”

FROM YOUR VOTERS: “Both my husband and I had good jobs - but when our youngest son was born almost six weeks early - with multiple health issues – we knew we had a tough and expensive road ahead. The medical bills were overwhelming and we could no longer afford the rent in Austin. We had to split up the family and move in with different family members until we found affordable housing. It allowed us to move back together and live as a whole family – and slowly rebuild our lives so that today we can see the light at the end of the tunnel.”

FROM YOUR VOTERS: “Our family experienced a significant financial loss after 2008. We had to sell our home in central Austin and moved to a rental home near my husband’s work in north central Austin. The price of rent exploded after 2 years and we could no longer afford to live there either. We had to take out the last of our savings and decided to purchase a home in far Northwest Austin. The mortgage is less than our rent was, but I had to take on a second job on and we both spend hours each day commuting to and from work.”

FROM YOUR VOTERS: “As a single parent with twin daughters, I wanted a home in their school district and was looking for a price range that was reasonable. After weeks of Internet ads, apartment finders and real estate pages, no one could find much. Finally, after 4 weeks of searching, I lucked out with a place at the very top of my price range. It wasn’t easy and it showed just how little affordable housing exists in Austin.”

FROM YOUR VOTERS: “My partner and I are both pursuing graduate degrees and needed a home that was as close as possible to campus. We were both surprised to find out how expensive some of the really poor quality housing was but couldn’t find anything within our price range. We ended up taking out extra student loans to pay above our price range for a place that we actually felt safe and comfortable. We will be paying for these extra loans long after school because we couldn’t afford Austin’s housing on our part-time salaries.”

FROM YOUR VOTERS: “When I began my housing search, I focused on housing that had a great school for my children. When I found the rental listing, there were already three people who were looking at the property and the only reason I got the place was because I was fortunate enough to have a cash deposit available. The duplex is some of the only (semi) affordable housing in the area. I’ve been there for two years, but I worry about how I will afford the cost of rent in the future, as the price increases every year I lease.”
